

Phil 624: Problems in Philosophical Analysis Philosophy & Religion

This course examines major problems found in the approaches, positions, and methods of contemporary analytic philosophy. May be repeated once for credit with a change in topic.

3 Credits

Prerequisites

• Consent of instructor required for all students not enrolled in the philosophy graduate program.

Instruction Type(s)

• Seminar: Seminar for Phil 624

Subject Areas

Philosophy

Related Areas

- Applied and Professional Ethics
- Ethics
- Logic
- Philosophy, Other

