

IE 095: English Lab for Sciences

Modern Languages

The English Lab is designed to accompany enrollment in a science course as support for the instruction and learning taking place in that course. In the lab, students will be able to work through the material being covered in the content course by asking questions, participating in discussions, and studying the language used in the main course.

Student must be enrolled in a Chem, Phys, or Bisc course. May be repeated once for credit. Not for degree credit.
