

Anth 611: Adv. Anthropology of Politics & Power

Sociology & Anthropology

This seminar in political anthropology considers the exercise and legitimization of power in state and nonstate societies. Focusing on theories of power, this course examines a variety of contemporary topics such as sovereignty, citizenship, hegemony, discipline, and national security.

3 Credits

Instruction Type(s)

- Seminar: Seminar for Anth 611

Subject Areas

- Sociology

