

AT 698: Field Service Project in Athletic Train.

School of Applied Sciences

This course is intended for students interested in completing an athletic training-focused field service project. Students are expected to participate in the organization of a service-oriented, evidence-based practice activity that contributes to the greater body of knowledge within the field of athletic training. Students will work one-on-one with their adviser to identify times that they will meet and create a plan for communication throughout the process of completing the field service project.
