

Psy 419: Psychology of Parenting

Students gain a current research-based understanding of a wide range of topics related to the psychology of parenting. This includes topics related to parenting from pre-conception through emerging adulthood and empirically supported parenting practices to promote optimal development from conception through emerging adulthood.

3 Credits

Prerequisites

• Psy 201: Introduction to Psychology (Minimum grade: C)

• Pre-Requisite: 24 Earned Hours

Instruction Type(s)

• Lecture: Lecture for Psy 419

• Lecture: Web-based Lecture for Psy 419

Subject Areas

• Family Psychology

• Applied Psychology

Related Areas

- Applied Behavior Analysis
- Clinical Psychology
- Educational Psychology
- Environmental Psychology
- Forensic Psychology
- Geropsychology
- Health/Medical Psychology
- Industrial and Organizational Psychology

