

Hst 641: Readings in Global History: Gender History

This course examines mid-century feminist movements from a transnational perspective. It complicates both our understanding of second-wave feminism in an American context and examines feminist movements through case studies around the world. We will question what kinds of activist work count as feminist and consider new paradigms for understanding feminist work.

3 Credits

Cross-listed Courses

- G St 641: Readings in Global History: Gender

Instruction Type(s)

- Seminar: Seminar for Hst 641

Subject Areas

- History, General

Related Areas

- American History United States
- Asian History
- European History
- History and Philosophy of Science and Technology
- History, Other

