

Span 600: Hispanic Linguistics for Grad Students Modern Languages

Students in this course study all aspects of Hispanic linguistics, including phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. The linguistic diversity of the Spanish-speaking world is stressed.

3 Credits

Instruction Type(s)

• Seminar: Seminar for Span 600

Subject Areas

• Hispanic and Latin American Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics, General

Related Areas

- French Language and Literature
- Italian Language and Literature
- Portuguese Language and Literature
- Romance Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics, General
- Romance Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics, Other
- Spanish Language and Literature

