

Inst 375: Global Health

Croft Inst for International Studies

The course aims to provide a theoretical and substantive understanding of the field of global health from a social science perspective. Topics may include communicable and noncommunicable diseases, elective biomedicine, health care delivery systems, social determinants of health, reproduction, and ethics.

3 Credits

Prerequisites

- Pre-Requisite: 24 Earned Hours

Instruction Type(s)

- Lecture: Lecture for Inst 375

Subject Areas

- International/Global Studies
- Anthropology

