

FS 305: Topics in Liberty, Literature, & Arts College of Liberal Arts

Taught by an expert in literature, music, art, theatre, and/or film, this course examines how ideas around freedom and liberty have been articulated and represented in different expressive and creative disciplines across the arts and humanities. May be repeated once with a change in topic.

Prerequisites

• Pre-Requisite: 24 Earned Hours

Instruction Type(s)

• Lecture: Lecture for FS 305

Subject Areas

- Philosophy, Other
- Multi-/Interdisciplinary Studies, Other

