

Econ 311: Economics of Religion

Economics

Economists approach the study of religion both by investigating how religion shapes economic outcomes (religion as an independent variable) and by applying the economic way of thinking to illuminate religious practices and organizations (religion as a dependent variable). This course will cover both approaches.

3 Credits

Instruction Type(s)

- Lecture: Lecture for Econ 311

Subject Areas

- Economics, General
- Econometrics and Quantitative Economics

Related Areas

- Applied Economics
- Development Economics and International Development
- Economics, Other
- International Economics

